

ROW, ROW, ROW YOUR BOAT

Jayashree Deshpande
Monappa

Original Story (Kannada) Doni Vihara by Jayashree Deshpande
© Rajiv Gandhi Foundation – Pratham Books, 2005

First English Edition: 2005

Illustrations & Design: Monappa
English Translation: Dr. Divaspathy Hegde

ISBN : 81-8263-134-3

Registered Office:
PRATHAM BOOKS
633-634, 4th "C" Main, 6th 'B' Cross, OMBR Layout,
Banaswadi, Bangalore 560 043
☎ 080-25429726 / 27 / 28

Regional Offices: Mumbai ☎ 022-65162526 and New Delhi ☎ 011-65684113

Typesetting and Layout by: Pratham Books, Delhi

Printed by: Manipal Press, Manipal

Published by:
Pratham Books
www.prathambooks.org

Some rights reserved. This book is CC-BY-3.0 licensed.
Full terms of use and attribution available at:
<http://www.prathambooks.org/cc>

ROW, ROW, ROW YOUR BOAT

Written: Jayashree Deshpande

Illustrations: Monappa

English Translation: Dr. Divaspathy Hegde

This book belongs to

Raju lives in the city. But every summer, when school is out, he heads straight for his Ajja's house in the village. One of the things he loves to do there is to take a walk along the river with Ajja and Ajji.

The river in Ajja's village is always clear and cool. Its banks are lined with pale yellow sand and lush green trees, dotted here and there with huge boulders. At some places, steps lead right down to the water! When the trees are in bloom, everything looks so beautiful it takes your breath away.

“Why don’t we go down to the river this evening?”
asked Aiji one day.

“Can we, really, Aiji?” asked Raju, excited.

“Of course we can!” said Aija. “Maybe Raju would also enjoy a boat ride on the river. Do you think you would like that, Raju?” “It sounds wonderful!” said Raju.

That evening, Raju, Ajja and Ajji went down to the river. Ajji was carrying a picnic basket full of Raju's favourite eats. The three of them sat in a cool mango grove on the riverbank and ate their tea, watching children playing around them. From where they sat, they could see a number of people enjoying an evening swim in the river. Some of them were teaching their children to swim too.

All the children were swimming with something long and white tied to their backs. “What is that on their backs, Ajja?” asked Raju, puzzled.

“It is a vegetable called a bottle gourd,” explained Ajja. “The gourd is hollowed out, then left to dry in the sun. When it is completely dry, it floats on water. Tie it to your back and you will float in the water too! That way, you can learn to swim without worrying about drowning.”

“That sounds like fun,” said Raju.
“Ajja, do you think I could learn swimming with a gourd too?
I really want to!”

“Why not?” said Ajja. “You can start tomorrow.”
“Really? I would love that!” said Raju, delighted.
Why, maybe he would be a champion swimmer
by the end of his summer vacation!

After their little picnic, Ajja, Ajji, and Raju walked along the river until they reached a jetty. There were several rowboats tied up at the jetty. Ajja pointed to one of the boatmen, and said, “These are the people who row the boats and take people on rides on the river.”

Ajja spoke to one of the boatmen, who agreed to take them all on a ride. The boat was tossing about gently in the water, making Raju a little nervous about stepping into it. Ajja held his arm firmly and helped him in. Once the boat began to move, Raju's fears disappeared and he began to enjoy the ride.

The river flowed calm and gentle. The water lapped against the sides of the boat and the boatmen sang in rhythm, rowing strongly with both arms. Little fish leaped out of the water and back in. The pleasant evening breeze stirred up the water and the grasses. Raju trailed his hand in the cool water of the river. He was enjoying himself.

“Are you enjoying the ride?” asked Aja,
breaking into his thoughts.

“Very much, Aja,” smiled Raju.

“When you go back home, don't forget to tell your friends about your boat ride!” said Aji.

“I won't, Aji,” said Raju. “And I'm sure they will all agree that I am a very lucky boy indeed.”

Use your imagination and colour this picture any way YOU like.

Use your imagination and colour this picture any way YOU like.

I am Ankit. I study in class 7 and want to become a lawyer when I grow up because the law is equal for everybody. You will never see me lagging behind in disco dancing and cricket also!

Thank you for buying this book. My friends and I will get to read many more books in our library because you bought this book.

Jayashree Deshpande is a prolific author of short stories, essays, humour and novels in Kannada. She has been writing for nearly fifteen years. Her stories have been published in all leading magazines and publications in Kannada. Jayashree has travelled widely across USA and Europe and loves writing travelogues. Her hobbies include travel, photography and reading literature.

Monappa was a painter and later took fancy to graphic art. He has worked with leading Kannada publications including Manipal Publications and Printers India. After almost two decades of full time work as a staff artist he took voluntary retirement to start his own art studio in the outskirts of Bangalore. He is presently doing commercial work for media institutions and book publishing industry.

Visiting Ajja and Ajji in the village is always exciting for Raju, but this time, his grandparents have a special surprise for him. One evening, when they are taking their usual walk along the river, Ajja suggests a boat ride. Why don't you join them?

Other titles in the series:

The Hare And The Tortoise (Again!) • The Sparrow And The Fruit • The Rainbow Fish
The Day The Vegetables Came To School • The Koel's Song • Grandpa Fish And The Radio
Ruby Red, Rosy Red • The Generous Crow • Moo Moo Brown Crow

For more information on all our titles please visit www.prathambooks.org

Our books are available in English, Hindi, Tamil, Telugu, Kannada, Marathi, Gujarati, Bengali, Punjabi, Urdu and Oriya.

PRATHAM BOOKS

Pratham Books is a not-for-profit publisher that produces high-quality and affordable children's books in Indian languages.

Age Group: 7-10 years

Row, Row, Row your Boat (English)

MRP: Rs. 20.00

